Abbot
was bred by Col. H. S. Russell, owner of "Smuggler," and is recorded in second Vol. of Wallace's Stud Book. This superior young Horse is a beautiful blood bay color, with black points, stands 16 hands high, weighs 1125 pounds, is very stylish and perfectly kind; never been handled for speed, can show 2.40 gait now. He was sired by "Taurus" (record 2.30 as a five year old.) Dam by Mambrino Chief, sire of the famous "Lady Thorn," record of 2.18½.
"Blood will Tell."
"Volante," his brother in blood, won a race in Boston June 13, over a field of [illegible], in 2.24, 3d heat, getting a record of 2.24, showing both speed and bottom.
Hoping to see a better and more stylish class of Road Horses, as well as Trotting Stock in this State, I shall let this splendid Horse stand this season at the extremely low price of $20, payable at time of service. (Cash for satisfactory stock.) Mares not proving in foal can be returned next season free of charge.

JAMAICA
GINGER.
This elegant preparation is prepared from the true Jamaica Ginger, combined with choice aromatics and genuine French Brandy, and is vastly superior to every other Extract or Essence of Ginger before the public—all of which are prepared by the old process.

CHOLERA MORBUS.
Cramps, Pains, Diarrhœa, and Dysentery are instantly relieved by it. It will render an attack of Cholera Morbus impossible, if taken when the symptoms of these diseases first manifest themselves.

CRAMPS AND PAINS,
whether produced by Indigestion, Impure Food, change of water or diet, too free indulgence in ice water, exposure to sudden changes of temperature, are immediately relieved by it. One ounce will flavor a gallon of

ICE WATER
and render it a refreshing mixture, which, as a cool, healthy [illegible] Beverage, has no equal. Barrels of Ice water, prepared in this way, may be drunk without the slightest injury, and happy is the man who finds this a safe [illegible] Farmer, Mechanic, and [illegible] [illegible] within the reach of all, so finely flavored as to be enjoyed by every one.

DYSPEPSIA,
Flatulency, Sluggish Digestion, want of Tone and Activity in the Stomach [illegible] after Eating, are sure to be relieved [illegible] taken after each meal [illegible]

RESTORATIVE STIMULANT
Free from the poisonous oils [illegible] to the sensitive [illegible] will create no morbid [illegible] assistant to digestion, as well as [illegible] a stimulant. Such we confidently believe is to be found in an elegant combination of the True Jamaica Ginger with the Choicest Aromatics. It is beyond all comparison the most healthy, invigorating tonic and stimulant before the public. It is earnestly recommended to the weak and nervous, to those recovering from debilitating diseases, and to the aged in all parts of the world.

VEGETINE
SCROFULA,
Scrofulous Humor.
VEGETINE will eradicate from the system every taint of Scrofula and Scrofulous Humor. It has permanently cured thousands in Boston and vicinity who had been long and painful sufferers.

Cancer, Cancerous Humor.
The marvellous effect of Vegetine in case of Cancer and Cancerous Humor challenges the most profound attention of the medical faculty, many of whom are prescribing Vegetine to their patients.

Canker.
Vegetine has never failed to cure the most inflexible case of Canker.

Mercurial Diseases.
The Vegetine meets with wonderful success in the cure of this class of diseases.

Salt Rheum.
Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, &c., will certainly yield to the great alterative effects of Vegetine.

Erysipelas.
Vegetine has never failed to cure the most inveterate case of Erysipelas.

Pimples and Humors on the Face.
Reason should teach us that a blotchy, rough or pimpled skin depends entirely upon an internal cause, and no outward application can ever cure the defect. Vegetine is the great blood purifier.

Tumors, Ulcers or Old Sores are caused by an impure state of the blood. Cleanse the blood thoroughly with Vegetine, and these complaints will disappear.

Catarrh.
For this complaint the only substantial benefit can be obtained through the blood. Vegetine is the great blood purifier.

Constipation.
Vegetine does not act as a cathartic to debilitate the bowels, but cleanses all the organs, enabling each to perform the functions devolving upon them.

Piles.
Vegetine has restored thousands to health who have been long and painful sufferers.

Dyspepsia.
If Vegetine is taken regularly, according to directions, a certain and speedy cure will follow its use.

Faintness at the Stomach.
Vegetine is not a stimulating bitters which creates a fictitious appetite, but a gentle tonic, which assists nature to restore the stomach to a healthy action.

Female Weakness.
Vegetine acts directly upon the causes of these complaints. It invigorates and strengthens the whole system, acts upon the secretive organs and allays inflammation.

General Debility.
In this complaint the good effects of the Vegetine are realized immediately after commencing to take it, as debility denotes deficiency of the blood, and Vegetine acts directly upon the blood.

FARRAGUT IN MOBILE BAY

THE STORY TOLD BY EYE WITNESSES—SENDING HIM THE ROPE—HIS PERILOUS PLACE—PICTURE AND BROWNELL'S POEM TRUTHFUL REPRESENTATIONS.

[To the N. Y. Times.]

Sir: In a brief communication which appeared in your paper June [illegible] I stated that I was preparing a statement of the actual position occupied by the late Admiral Farragut during the memorable battle of Mobile Bay. The delay in submitting it has been caused by the time required to obtain certain evidence necessary to elucidate the subject and substantiate my assertion. [illegible] This publication has been urged upon me by friends of the old hero, who, like myself, have been surprised and vexed at the constant expression of doubts, [illegible] of the action on the part of a writer who claims to speak from observation as well as authority. It is recently described the spirited poem by the late Henry Howard Brownell styled "The Bay Fight," as a "poetical rendering" over which old salts smile, and criticises the large painting by William Page [illegible] Farragut in the rigging [illegible] picture.

The expression "Admiral Farragut lashed to the rigging of the Hartford" has grown to a proverb, and I am prepared to prove that, unlike the thrilling yet never uttered words attributed to Wellington at Waterloo, and Taylor at Buena Vista, it is founded upon fact, and therefore claims perpetuation in history. Now, let me premise by saying that so far as the results of that great battle are concerned, the actual position of the heroic commander may be considered of little consequence, but as the truth of stirring incidents depends upon authenticated evidence, it becomes sufficiently important to verify them by personal statements. My right to speak positively upon this subject is founded upon information collected to have no possible doubt in the mind of the most incredulous as to its trustworthiness. I advance my claims to speak from these several facts: that I was an eye-witness as Chief of Staff of the 13th Army Corps, then co-operating with the navy of the [illegible] engagement; that I was for many years personally and officially associated with the Great Admiral, and frequently heard from his own lips a detailed description of every incident of the battle; that I was standing by his side when he examined Page's painting, then in the artist's studio, and was assured by himself that it was [illegible] fully correct in presentation; that I often heard him extol Brownell's poem as a most faithful and spirited sketch; and, further, that I was informed of the Admiral's position by the late Percival Drayton, [illegible] before the Hartford sailed out of Mobile Bay. This personal evidence is supplemented and strongly corroborated by the written testimony, now in my possession, of several of the officers who participated in that battle, and who were stationed in such positions and upon such duty as brought them into constant intercourse with their commander throughout the whole period of the action. This latter evidence includes the statements of Rear Admiral Thornton A. Jenkins, who commanded the Richmond, the vessel next in column to the flag ship; Capt. James E. Jewett, in command of the Metacomet, the consort of the Hartford, whose attention was [illegible] ordered to cast loose and capture the Selma was on the [illegible] of his vessel directly below the position held by the Admiral, to enable him the better to receive and execute the orders given; Capt. Lewis A. Kimberly, executive officer of the Hartford; Commanders Arthur R. Yates and J. Crittenden Watson, the former acting aid, and the latter flag lieutenant to the Commander-in-Chief; Lieut. Commanders A. Mayo Dyer and Henry C. Nichols on the Metacomet, and Lieut. Joseph Marthon, in charge of the howitzers in the main top of the Hartford.

The testimony of these accomplished officers is selected particularly on account of their positions during that eventful day. It is so singularly accordant and corresponds so perfectly with the accounts given by the late Admiral himself, as to justify the writer in asserting that the subjoining sketch is a true and trustworthy history of "Farragut's positions" during the Mobile Bay fight.

DETAIL OF THE EVENT

Shortly after the line of battle was formed and the vessels in column got fairly under way, Admiral Farragut went into the port main rigging and took a position a short distance above the [illegible]. His object was to control the movements of his fleet and to maintain an unobstructed view of the operations of the enemy. As the firing increased and the hulls of his vessels became enveloped in smoke, he went up the rigging step by step, until he reached the junction of the futtock shrouds where standing on the ratlines, and an arm passed through the rigging, enabling him to use his marine glass, he remained until the batteries and rams were passed and the smoke had cleared away, when he returned to the poop-deck. Whilst in the position described, Capt. Drayton, commanding the flag ship, fearing that he (the Admiral) might be wounded and fall to the deck or overboard, sent the Signal Quartermaster to him with a small piece of rope—a hammock-lashing with the request that he would secure himself to the rigging. The old hero sent it back saying "I do not want it!" whereupon the Captain returned it with the message, "Tell Admiral Farragut that he will oblige me by making him self fast," upon which the Admiral took the rope, passed it twice around his body and then coiled the end several times to the rigging, admitting it was a sensible precaution and adding, as he fastened it, "There; tell Captain Drayton I'm all right."

In the subsequent encounter with the ram "Tennessee," his actual position was in the port mizzen rigging, a few ratlines above the deck, and whilst there he was again secured to the shroud, with a small rope, by his devoted Flag-Lieutenant and friend, Lieut.-Commander J. C. Watson, certified to by himself. "As stated the Admiral took this position for the sole purpose of commanding an unobstructed view of the entire scene of action, the dense volume of smoke which rested upon the bay rendering it impossible to see any distance from the decks." The statement that it was to enable him to "cling to the foot of his trusty 'old' pilot, Martin Freeman," by "passing his arm up through the lubber-hole," is pronounced an absurdity by the officers and those familiar with the construction of a frigate, who insist that from his actual position, it would have been a physical impossibility, unless the sinewy arm of the brave old hero was susceptible of an elongation of "three fathoms," or, as another officer expresses it, "unless he had an arm as long as a main-top-gallant studding sail boom." Lieut. Marthon, along maintains that, when the Brooklyn stopped, he ran up higher and asked the pilot whether there was room to pass between that vessel and the batteries. Pilot Freeman was in the main top leaning against the rail, giving his orders to Capt. Jewett by motions and communicating them to those at the helm of the Hartford by a speaking tube.

This account, as fully confirmed by those immediately around the Admiral, apart from personal assurances of the Admiral himself, establishes beyond dispute the admirable correctness of Page's picture of "Farragut lashed to the rigging of the Hartford," and, taken in connection with the events suddenly developed by the unwarrantable action of the Brooklyn in backing across the bows of the Flag Ship when directly abreast of the batteries of the enemy, and upon the sinking of the Tecumseh, sustains the accuracy and life-like effect of the spirited poem of Henry Howard Brownell, descriptive of "The Bay Fight."

BROWNELL'S POEM.

If old salts smile over this poetical rendering, as has been averred, it must surely therefore be in token of their appreciation of the poet's descriptive power, for I doubt whether in the wide range of the English language there can be found a more inspiring sketch of a brilliant naval engagement. Take for example the one verse which so tersely and thrillingly tells the story of the critical period of that famous action:

> "There, som[e] doubt, a [illegible] before
> Of batteries [illegible] tions
> [illegible] ge[...]
> When [illegible] too late
> [illegible] but fail
> [illegible] bold
> [illegible]
> [illegible] all!
> [illegible]
> [illegible] Hartford, pass! [illegible]"

The [illegible] will furnish the best possible description of that most exciting and eventful moment. When the [illegible] line, [illegible] the Brooklyn suddenly stopped and backed across the bows of the Hartford and her consort the Metacomet causing a pause [illegible] confusion. It became a period of extreme peril to the entire [illegible] Had [illegible] doubt [illegible] [illegible] disaster would have prevented [illegible] the future of the attack. But fortunately our grand old Chief [illegible] to lead, was quick to the emergency [illegible] took his [illegible] from the maintop [illegible] [illegible] with signals flying, [illegible] the flag ship, the Hartford passed [illegible] the batteries [illegible] Mobile Bay, [illegible] among our greatest naval victories.

In justice to the memory of the [illegible] gifted author of the [illegible] successfully styled [illegible] Farragut at Mobile [illegible] sweetly sings:

[illegible]

[illegible] the writer cannot conclude this article without admitting that he [illegible] [illegible] that the public [illegible] him simply by [illegible] Henry Howard Brownell [illegible] When Admiral Farragut was ordered [illegible] the [illegible] from, the poet wrote him an [illegible] letter [illegible] a subordinate position to [illegible] active duty in his country's service. He was appointed Volunteer Ensign and during the battle of Mobile Bay was stationed on the poop-deck of the Hartford, the most exposed on the ship, with directions to make careful notes of the fight, of the enemies batteries. Although shot and shell was crashing around him he maintained his post like Casabianca, without flinching, and performed his duties so coolly and heroically as to win the respect and admiration of his brother officers, and be personally complimented by his great commander. The term "[illegible] [illegible]" cannot be applied to such heroes. On the contrary, [illegible] Admiral was so much pleased with his conduct that when in 1867, he was ordered to make his cruise to Europe which became so famous, he requested the sailor poet to form one of his personal staff. The writer's association with him during that delightful tour and his knowledge of his patriotic [illegible] character, [illegible] the gratifying source of this slight tribute to his memory.

I sincerely trust the statements thus presented will establish the historical fact that Admiral Farragut was lashed to the rigging of the Hartford during the battle of Mobile Bay. Respectfully,

JAMES E. MONTGOMERY,
Secretary to late Admiral Farragut.

BY RAILWAY UP MT. WASHINGTON

The railway might have suggested Jules Verne's Tour out the Moon, and is such a triumph of engineering that it will be a pity if any visitor to the mountains misses a ride over it. The work of construction was begun in 1866, and was completed three years later. The route follows the Ammonoosuc Valley, and from the Fabyan House to the end of the first section rail is six and two thirds miles. For two and a half miles the grade is two hundred and ninety feet to the mile, or one foot of perpendicular height to eighteen feet of horizontal distance. Besides the usual rails, there is a central rail of peculiar construction to receive the motive power consisting of two bars of iron, with connecting cross pieces placed four inches apart. A central cog wheel on the locomotive plays into this rail and ensures a steady, safe mode of ascent and descent.

The locomotive at first looks out of the engine house has the appearance of being ready to fall over. The driving wheel is geared into a smaller wheel which connects directly with the crank, and four revolutions of the latter are required to make one of the driving wheel. The locomotive is not connected with the car, but simply pushes it up in the ascent and allows it to follow gently in the descent. A wrought iron dog constantly plays into notches on the driving wheel so that should any part of the machinery give way, the train may be immediately stopped. The car is also supplied with friction and atmospheric brakes. The seats are placed at an angle that brings them almost on a level in the ascent, and all of them face down the mountain. The time occupied on the journey up is about an hour and a half, the engine having to stop several times on the way to take in water. The fare, as I have stated, is three dollars up the mountain, three dollars down or four dollars up and down on the same train.—W. H. Rideing, in Harper's Magazine for August.

This is awful! The grandson of a prominent well-known citizen of the Highland District rushed into the house the other day and exclaimed with much vigor and great excitement, "O, grandpa, I've just seen the worst Irish funeral I ever saw in my life. The men were all in open carriages and shouting, and smoking cigars." Gentle reader, the "men" were the members of the City Council out investigating the new park scheme. A true story, as related at the City Hall.—Boston Globe.

The West is welcome to its tornadoes and its waterspouts, says the Brooklyn Union-Argus, but we submit that they ask us to believe too much with such yarns as that of the small boy who was blown skyward and met the church steeple as it was going the other way, or that later tough one about the waterspout "flooding everything for miles to the depth of twelve feet." We are only used to Chicago lying, and the outlying districts are too much for us.

"Ye are the light of the world," said Christ to his disciples. How am I shining in my day and generation, would be a proper question for each one of the disciples of our Lord to ask himself occasionally. [illegible]

The bright side of things is the one we do not see in the world, but for all that it exists.

Androscoggin.

An adroit swindler is about and has been duping the people of several villages. A few days ago he turned up in Lisbon and after giving away small change very liberally commenced the sale of pins. At the selling the pins he remarked that he supposed he could do as he chose with the proceeds, and returned the money to the purchasers. He next took out eight chains, which he offered at $8 each. The purchasers took up the lot, thinking they would have the money returned. After closing out the lot, he made the remark that he supposed he could do what he chose with the money, and he concluded to put the $64 in his pocket. With a good bye and a promise to come again he drove away.

Republican State Convention.

The Republicans of Maine and all others who propose to support the candidates of the Republican party in the pending election, are invited to send delegates to a State Convention, to be held in for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Governor, to be supported at the September election, and to attend to such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

GRANITE HALL, AUGUSTA,

Thursday, Aug. 9th, 1877, at 11 A. M.

The basis of representation will be as follows: Each city, town and plantation is entitled to one delegate and one additional delegate for every seventy-five votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1876; and a fraction of a majority of forty votes over the number which is entitled to such delegate, will be accorded a delegate. Substitutes can serve only for those of the county to which they belong.

The Republican State Committee will be in session in the State room, in the Hall at 7 o'clock this evening, and a full attendance is desired.

By order of the Republican State Committee.

JAMES G. BLAINE, Chairman.

I. C. SMITH, Secretary.

Republican County Convention.

The Republican voters of the County of Penobscot are hereby invited to meet in delegates in Convention at the CITY HALL IN BANGOR,

On Friday, the 10th day of August next,

at 10 o'clock A. M.,

to nominate candidates for the following offices, to be voted for at the September election, and to transact such other business as may properly come before the Convention.

BASIS.—Each city, town and plantation, or each organized district, is entitled to one delegate for every fifty votes cast for the Republican candidate for Governor in 1876, and an additional delegate, for a fraction of twenty-five votes or more; in addition to said fifty votes, and each city, ward or district is entitled to one delegate for every fifty votes cast for Governor, and each town, city, ward or district is entitled to one delegate.

THE ISSUE OF THE FUTURE.

[From the Albany Journal.]

An eminent and honored Republican of long experience in the South and thoroughly familiar with the Southern spirit, writes us a private letter from which we take the liberty of making the following extract:

"Every man may to-day look to see the South move steadily forward to the control of this Government with a Dutch certainty as he looks for sunrise to-morrow—unless all the logical and actual results of Hayes' conduct can be overcome or nullified."

We do not meditate the sentence, but print it at just as it stands, though we do not deem the latter clause essential to the statement. The main proposition tersely and vividly pictures the undoubted impression and purpose of the South, and may well be written in living letters as an ever-present warning and guide to the North. Looking to the ambition and impulses of the South, we do not regard the President's action as a vital and inexplicable element of the case. Unconscionably it has failed its mission in one way or the other. But in the long struggle this action of the hour is only the momentary wave—a sudden, violent lurch, and then the steady current. We never be thought of the course pursued by the President, no Republican and no rational patriot of any party can be blind to the issue of the future. We may differ about the single acts which are past. Some may condemn the withdrawal of aid from Gove, Chamberlain and Packard as a dereliction of duty, and others may deplore it as a painful necessity. Some may censure the termination of military interference as an abandonment of trust, and others may recognize it as the inevitable logic of events. But whether we accept these past results as a necessity or not, we are none the less alive to the temper of the South, and none the less awake to the paramount duty of the present and the future.

Through the proceedings in South Carolina and Louisiana were but simple acts—the dictates of apparent necessity—the President doubtless meant them for something more. He meant them as the expression of conciliation and good-will. He tendered them in the hope of true and lasting pacification. In the honest desire for such a result every right-minded Republican shares. Even those who dissent from the President's action would hail the restoration of fraternal feeling and mutual confidence. Among them are some of the best men in the land—whether agreeing with them or not, we owe them this recognition—and to suppose that they seek a prolonged and rancorous conflict between the sections is to impeach their good faith and patriotism. The great mass of the Republican party earnestly desire the final settlement of all those vital questions which have divided the North and the South. But our sincere feeling cannot blind us to the actual facts. We see the South—the old, unchanged South—master State after State. We see it steadily solidifying itself into a tremendous political force. We see it overthrow the last bulwark of opposition on its own soil and become one consolidated power from the Chesapeake to the Rio Grande. And then we see it "move steadily and compactly forward" to the control of this government.

The fact is undeniable—the purpose cannot be mistaken. Isn't it a solid South to-day? Isn't its purpose clearly the possession of the government? We desire peace and fraternity—shall we secure them by placing the South in command of the ship of State? Can we afford to run any such risk? While offering the olive branch, does it follow that we can safely turn over the government to those who sought to destroy it? Even if the old spirit had altogether changed, even if the South had abjured all its old impulses, it would be an amazing spectacle to see one solid section advance to the mastery of the nation only a few years after fighting to break it up.—Nobody wants to exclude any part of the country from all rightful share in its government. But the question before us is whether one section—and that the one which attempted to destroy the Union—shall, by solidifying its dangerous power through fraud and terrorism, "move steadily and compactly forward" to complete ascendency.

That is the way the issue of the future is shaping. If we seek the end of sectional questions, the South makes itself a solid section. If we desire peace and harmony, this is the answer. We may as well face the unwelcome truth. It is a question between two civilizations. It is a struggle between two antagonistic impulses. The next great contest is three years hence, but every day serves to define it. We regard the acts in South Carolina and Louisiana as just. We accept the purpose of the South to "move steadily and compactly forward to the control of the Government" as the question of the present and the future.

OPINIONS OF THE POLICY.

In the last issue of the Somerset Reporter, a weekly paper published at Skowhegan, there are fourteen letters published in answer to a circular requesting the views of the writers upon the "policy" of the new Administration. The papers speaks of them as representative Republicans, but we find only a few whose names are familiar to us, and some who have not been distinguished by devotion to the cause of the Republican party. Mr. J. L. H. Cobb, of Lewiston, Lyman S. Strickland, of Houlton, of bolting fame, I. S. Webb, of North Bridgton, James Howes, of New Sharon, and A. Allen, of Wellington, are more or less delighted with the Southern policy. Hon. J. H. Drummond, does not state his views; Gen. R. Fernald, of Wilton, thinks the President honest, but fears the result; Hon. E. W. Stetson, of Damariscotta, is not pleased with the policy, Mr. A. H. Walker, of Lowell, does not enable us to understand what he thinks; Hon. E. W. Woodbury, of Bethel, is in doubt as to the result of the policy, but advocates a "fair trial," and the following gentlemen, who are known to many of our readers express their views in the letters given below:

FROM PENOBSCOT.

HERMON, July 5, 1877

Messrs. Kelley & Woodbury:

Your circular letter of the 3d was duly rec'd and in reply, I will say, that so far as I am able to ascertain, the course pursued by President Hayes does not meet the approval of Republicans of this section.

Very truly yours,

R. B. MITCHELL.

FROM HOOSTOOK

HOULTON, July 7, 1877.

Your circular of the 3d inst., duly received and I take the present opportunity to reply. You will allow me to say that I have had considerable pains to ascertain the views of local Republicans of this county upon the late policy those who contributed largely with time and money to prevent this Government and they are nearly if not unanimously in favor of the policy of President Hayes in the Southern States. The sole aim Southern policy, which has been brought up in the discussion of the subject, and the great injury to the country. There are a few noble leaders that are strongly opposing their views, but thank God Heaven there are those who can stand up in their manhood and protest against such a policy, and none of those who have so nobly stood for the right need be more deserving of the gratitude of the American people than in Maine's honored representative, the Hon. J. G. Blaine. All persons in his noble high and lofty stand, and if he not without judge of jury for serious more would follow his example, it would be to their praise, both in the present and future generations. With these few wandering and imperfect remarks I will subscribe myself, Your obd't servant,

EBEN WOODBURY.

FROM HANCOCK

BUCKSPORT, July 5, 1877

Your circular note of the 3d inst. in which you request the expression of my views as to the value of the course pursued by the present National Administration since its inception, and as to the motives that have actuated President Hayes, is received.

I have no reason to believe President Hayes to be actuated by any other motives than a desire to cultivate, and restore, if possible, a feeling of harmony between the various sections of the country, especially between the States which participated in the rebellion, and those which remained loyal, and maintained the authority of the general government. I believe too, that he desires to see the public service purified, and the evils resulting from the use of office as patronage in supporting partisan men or measures, removed. I do not think, however, that his course in this direction, deserves the confidence. The efforts for reform, appear to be the most unwise and ill-advised support of the policy. This word—policy—very aptly represents the course of the administration, which appears to be governed by policy, or expediency, instead of principles.

As to the value of the course pursued, in the endeavor to accomplish the purposes mentioned, there is in this community a difference of opinion. I think the majority of the Republicans are neither in sympathy with the course pursued, nor willing to support the administration in giving the experiment a fair trial. Speaking for myself, I think the course is mistaken one. My opinion is, that President Hayes is under the influence of parties who are prejudiced to submit to dishonest new demands of the Southern States; that during the progress of counting the ele toral vote by the Committees and the two Houses of Congress, these parties were encouraged in the pressing a bluff at one, that in the interests of peace, and at undistributed persecution of this executive power, this administration ignores to a great extent the principles of the Republican party, and the supremacy of the general government. I have no faith in the professions of Southern politicians. I have no faith in the professed love of the people of that section for the "Old Flag." What they desire, is to control the affairs of the nation and direct national legislation, in support of the interests of a sectional aristocracy. My opinion is, that the course at present pursued will result in placing the Democratic party in power at the next Presidential election, and that through that party the Southern Confederacy—which failed to secure the perpetuation of its peculiar institution by war—will secure full and complete indemnification for all losses (or nearly all) resulting from the war. The result of a Democratic victory in 1880, will be much more disastrous than if they had succeeded in the last election. A Democratic success in 1878 would have left the Republican party intact and united. Through the errors of a Democratic administration we should have been assured of a victory in 1880, and the final defeat of the peculiar political heresies of the South.

Now, we are assured of a victory for the South even in the present administration. Succeeded as it surely will be by a thoroughly democratic administration, nothing short of a revolution, will restore the country to a correct course. I have written more than I intended, but the subject is prolific, and will bear much discussion. Very respectfully yours,

AMBROSE WHITE.

FROM SOMERSET.

NO NEW PORTLAND, July 6, 1877.

Your request for my opinion in relation to President Hayes and his official measures is received. I was greatly disappointed at the position President Hayes took at the time of his inauguration. I then felt no doubt of his honesty of purpose, but believed he had made a great mistake. I had no doubt of his fealty to the party that elected him. Subsequent action on his part has led me to believe, that with him the interests of the Republican party were second to his own personal interests, as he has shown his willingness to turn his back on those who have done the most to sustain those principles, the triumph of which at the polls secured his election, and to take counsel of those who now, nor never did have any interest in the Republican party only so far as they could use it for a purpose; and thereby has abandoned those vital principles regarded by Republicans to be of so great importance to the citizens of this country.

President Hayes' "civil service reform" has removed from the people the opportunity they have had heretofore to make their wishes known through their Representatives in Congress, and has established what men of all parties in this country have always contended against, viz., centralization of governmental matters, by arrogating the right and power to make all appointments to official positions without consulting the parties who are to be affected by those appointments.

His last manifesto, forbidding all persons holding office under the government from participating in political contests is simply obliging the office holder to resign his office or his manhood, in my opinion.

Very truly yours,

W. H. STEVENS.

THIS AND THAT.

It will be in order for The Bangor Whig to ask all the editor of the Lewiston Journal, who declares that he can see no meaning in which the Federal Government can interfere in Mississippi to punish such outrages as the Chisolm murder.—Boston Journal.

The Governor of Mississippi says he can do nothing to punish the Chisolm murderers, and he has done nothing. Of course he can do nothing to prevent or punish similar ones in the future. But unlike his Democratic fellow Governor in West Virginia, he refuses to call for help from the Federal Government, because he, like some of Governor Matthews's troops, is either afraid to oppose the murderers or is in sympathy with them. Besides, in Mississippi the trouble is a political one, and concerns the very basis of the government instead of the temporary convenience of the public, and the profits of a corporation. In West Virginia only disturbance was threatened, without even a suspicion of wilful murder. In Mississippi the most barbarous assassination in cold blood on record was perpetrated. There is doubtless a technical reason why the Federal Government could not interfere. But it is a shame on our whole country which ought to burn red on every citizen's brow that it is so. If there is no way to intervene in such a case it is high time one were invented, instead of confiding these miscreants with the words and giving them all the moral support of the government without so much as a sign of disapprobation. [Lowell Courier.

THE "COLOR LINE" IN THE SOUTH

A special Southern correspondent of the New York Tribune who has devoted much zeal to writing up the beauties of the new "policy" occasionally lets out some significant truths, as in the following:

When the negroes act in concert for a purpose which the white suppose is not for their good they are told to stand back. Black man's life is just as sacred as a white man's. I suppose there have been several thousand negroes killed by white men in the South within the past twenty years. The South under its laws has been full of hangings for these crimes, but they have been very few. Never heard of one.

But let a negro kill a white man, and the hue and cry for him extends over the whole State, and if caught he is lucky to escape lynching on the spot. No instance of a white man being lynched for crimes against a negro has ever come to my notice, but I have read of dozens, yea, hundreds of cases, where negroes were hung and shot without judge or jury for serious offences against the whites. In fact, it is almost certain death for a black man to be suspected of murder or outrage if the victim is white. The color of the poor fellow's skin lends an additional darkness to his deed.

WRITING IN MASSACHUSETTS SCHOOLS.

A very interesting correspondence has recently appeared in the Boston Advertiser with reference to the system of instruction in the common schools. The principal complaint is against the multiplication of studies to such a degree as to render thoroughness in either impossible, and a strong demand is made for a change that shall secure proficiency in the fundamental branches of education. In a letter in last Saturday's Advertiser, Hon. Charles Francis Adams, Jr., incidentally makes the following reference to the subject of improvement in penmanship in the Massachusetts schools:

My observation of grammar schools leads me to believe that, as a rule, so far from getting their scholars up to orthography and physiology and "constitutional law," they fail to teach them thoroughly the three R's. In my own culture on this subject will question the teachers of the Boston high schools; they can, if they get any information at all, get but little satisfaction there. So far from being a thorough groundwork in the rudiments, I do not hesitate to say that, among those sent up from our grammar to our high schools, the scholar who can really read and write is the exception, not the rule. I do not, of course, mean that the graduates of our grammar schools cannot blunder and stumble through a printed page, jumping the hard words, or scrawl an ill-expressed, illegible, badly spelled something on a sheet of paper. This they can do, but, as a rule, they're about all. The examination papers for entrance to our high schools would show whether this statement is exaggerated, and the principals of our grammar schools would confirm their showing.

PERSONAL. In the pamphlet of announcements issued by Williams' Theatre Burr we notice the name of Phillips Thompson, Esq., a member of the Boston Transcript staff, who has earned a brilliant reputation as a humorous writer and lecturer. Mr. Thompson's lecture is entitled "Modern Shots at Flying Follies," and is of a semi-humorous character, hitting off sharply many of the prominent social and political foibles of the age. The Boston press have unitedly complimented its delivery in that city and it has been received with great favor by some of the best audiences in New England. We are assured by friends who are good judges that Mr. Thompson has an entertaining lecturer, and when our Maine cities and towns make up their lists for the next lecture season they will do well to include Mr. Thompson's "Random Shots."

A correspondent of the N. Y. Tribune asks the following pertinent questions:

Apropos of the Chisolm and other political assassinations in the South, I wish to ask a question in regard to that portion of the Fourteenth Amendment which reads thus: "No State shall deny any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws," and "The Congress shall have power to enforce by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article." If the above was not put into the Constitution for the express purpose of giving Congress power to legislate so as to secure the punishment of crimes like the ones referred to at the beginning of this letter, in case of non-action on the part of State or local authorities, for what purpose was it put there?

The new Solicitor of the Treasury, Kenneth Raynor, that "solid Blue Whig" selected by the President as a nucleus for his new Southern party, has distinguished himself by his first official act, in giving an opinion favorable to overruling Secretary Stanton's decision fixing the rate of compensation to railroad companies for transporting troops, and allowing additional claims. The Quartermaster-General, Secretary of War and Second Comptroller had all declined to allow any "rate" in excess of that fixed by Secretary Stanton.

We understand that the Collector of the Port of Bangor has received the "order" of President Hayes prohibiting himself and all officers under his jurisdiction from participating in politics. Hereafter, outside of office hours, conversation must be confined to purely "social" topics. Editors of Republican views will be allowed to transact business at the Custom House as long as they behave themselves, or until further interpretation of the "order."

"Our genial neighbor is full of shoot this morning. He was terribly disappointed he says at Montreal was not under the head of fire and slaughter on the 12th of July, and now he wants to see rivers of blood running along the line of every railroad in the country."

No expression of opinion could so thoroughly indicate the contemptible falsification of the whole spirit of our article, than the simple statement that the above appeared in the editorial columns of the Bangor Commercial.

Accompanied by Dyer's many friends, the Association will visit Bangor's favorite resort, Clifford Island Steamer C. B. Sanford, etc.

LIGHT O'CLOCK PRECISELY.

The Bangor Cornet Band will be in attendance. Additional Cars have been secured for the occasion. Tickets at Fort Point and BANGOR only at the usual rates. Tickets will be on sale only at the Depot, and no checks will be given out. The Committee will question the travelers of the Bangor high school, they can, if they get any information at all, get but little satisfaction there. So far from being a thorough groundwork in the rudiments, I do not hesitate to say that, among those sent up from our grammar to our high schools, the scholar who can really read and write is the exception, not the rule. I do not, of course, mean that the graduates of our grammar schools cannot blunder and stumble through a printed page, jumping the hard words, or scrawl an ill-expressed, illegible, badly spelled something on a sheet of paper. This they can do, but, as a rule, they're about all. The examination papers for entrance to our high schools would show whether this statement is exaggerated, and the principals of our grammar schools would confirm their showing.

Tickets 75 cents. Children 40 cents.

Boats will leave Bloomfield Wharf, foot of Exchange St., at 8 A. M., 10 A. M., 2 P. M. and 4 P. M. Returning, will leave Fort Point at 6 P. M. and 8 P. M.

EDMUND BURKE, [1877]

late Commissioner of Patents.

Boston, October 15, 1870.

R. H. EDDY, Esq.—Dear Sir: You procured for me, in 1865, my first patent. Since then you have acted for and advised me in hundreds of cases, and procured many patents, reissues and extensions. I have occasionally employed the best agencies in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, but I still give you almost the whole of my business, in your line, and advise inventors to employ you. Yours truly, GEORGE BRIGGS.

HARRISON'S

A POSITIVE CURE FOR

Costiveness, Dyspepsia, Piles,

Oppression after Eating, Headache, Dizziness,

For thirty years these Lozenges have retained the confidence of the Medical Profession and the public generally, in spite of all competitors or imitators. They are the most effectual remedy for DERANGED DIGESTION in the following diseases, viz: Piles, Indigestion, Headache, Dizziness, Languor, Oppression of Food, Heartburn, Wind Spasms, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Torpid Liver, &c., &c.

Persons who cannot endure strong purgatives find these Lozenges a mildly active Cathartic, curing complaints incident to them, and restoring the system, preventing painful pains and obstructions. They are also just the thing for children and delicate women, being a sure cure, and so agreeable to take as the most pleasant confection.

Travellers find the Lozenges just what they need, as one or more can be carried in the vest pocket, and as an aperient or laxative they are unequalled.

Testimony of a Boston Merchant.

BOSTON, May 17, 1865.

This certifies that I have used Dr. Harrison's PERISTALTIC LOZENGES, and after suffering a long time with the Dyspepsia, in various forms, I recommend their use to all afflicted in the same way, without reserve, as experience has led to relief with any remedy I have used.

HARRISBURG Pa July 22

To Rutherford B Hayes President of the United States Washington

Domestic violence exists at this time in Pennsylvania including the city of Pittsburg and along the line of the Pennsylvania Railroad and other railroads and the power of the State is unable to suppress said violence and the Legislature of Pennsylvania cannot be convened in time to meet the exigencies arising therefore to request the Executive of the United States that he will use the military forces at his command to the extent necessary to suppress said violence and to enforce the laws of the United States and to protect the property of the United States now in the possession of the said Pennsylvania Railroad Company

Matters in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA July 23 A telegram from the Secretary of War promising troops immediately was received by the Mayor shortly after midnight It is not thought that there will be any riotous demonstrations on the streets of the city unless it be the desire of the rioters to accomplish some purpose

Excitement in Allentown

ALLENTOWN Pa July 22—Midnight The 18th regiment Col Good left home in the afternoon The Reading and Hamburg companies are unable to get here on account of the track being torn up at Reading Two attempts were made to set the Rolling Mill which is at present idle on fire but were unsuccessful Excitement is intense

In Reading—Great Destruction of Property

READING July 23—10 A M The railroad troubles culminated in a serious outbreak to-night Shortly after ten o'clock upon the arrival of the east passenger train from Philadelphia about 100 men followed it to the train room and Penn Square where stones to the number of passenger depot and the eight cars were presented from leaving the depot and several hundred persons commenced obstructing the tracks of the Lebanon Valley Railroad leading to Harrisburg Two cabooses were set on fire and burned the flames of the city have joined in the strike against the road

Our force consisting the N Y Central are powerless against the mob It is feared that our whole property will be destroyed unless the military arrive to-night

The military are now in possession of the building and all is now being guarded by the mob who place fear in the strikers and force against attack Company B of the 5th Regiment with about 21 men and three officers fired by persons in the mob They were met with yells of derision from the crowd and a shower of stones were obliged to retreat at double quick and three shots were thrown into the yelling crowd at the point of the bayonet One of the shots struck a boy in the hands with knives and were also clubbed Four of the strikers will how survive the others removed Two were both fatally clubbed down and stoned to death Several citizens who took part in the conflict on the side of the strikers have been arrested

At Pittsburg the militia were not reinforced or well supplied with ammunition The police sympathized with the strikers Five hundred well officered resolute men would have saved $10 000 000 worth of property The strikers have thrown a force of men between the Pittsburg and Cincinnati road to prevent the passage of troops The strikers have gained an advantage with the firemen to run the locomotives It is expected the Newark Central engineers will follow suit to-night

ON OTHER ROADS

A General Strike

ST LOUIS July 23 The strike on the Central went into effect at midnight The Chicago and Alton engineers previously reported as also left and most of the yard switchmen Another passenger train each night train on the Indianapolis St Louis and also on the Cairo Road But the Terre Haute road is stopped with the exception of a few freight trains

Reduced freight trains are put on at several hundred strikers are in the city but a different class of engineers is at all the old men having refused to go out and the Company has hired a few to take short runs

QUINCY Ill July 23 Morton and Hartranft Rifles are ordered to Paoli

PITTSBURG Pa July 23 The veterans and citizens are arranging for an organized march at 12 o'clock, its intention is to meet the miners on the way and prevent their landing

Disorder in Zanesville, Ohio

ZANESVILLE O July 23 At 9 this a to two thousand men assembled in front of the new hotel being built under contract by D Townsend and commanded the laborers to quit work which they did All re-assembled in front of the Court House where the crowd was addressed by Henry Blandy, who counselled moderation and told them to look to the Democratic Convention for consolation After the speech large crowds marched to different manufacturing places in the city compelling the men to quit work They also waited on proprietors of the street car railroads compelling them to haul off the street cars

WASHINGTON July 23 Orders have been issued from the Navy Department to have the various iron-clads at Washington Philadelphia and elsewhere prepared for service immediately and the engineers and officers are ordered to report on board to move them without delay should it be necessary

Heavy Strike in Columbus.

COLUMBUS July 23—2 P M About noon 700 railroad strikers compelled the employees of the rolling mills to suspend work The employees of the pipe-works and the Clay Co's work Patterson's pot works Adams planing mill Frank Mullin works Peters' sash works and other factories have joined the strikers and a mob of 2 000 marched to Union depot where they dispersed on foot brought with them

The manager of the Pan Handle road has ordered all shops closed and the system of railroad business suspended

Situation in St Louis

ST LOUIS July 23 Everything is very quiet Union depot and in the yard of the Union Railway and Transfer Co this morning The one o'clock train was allowed to cross the Eads bridge but soon will be permitted to pass at 12 o'clock The engineers and firemen on the Pacific road company who left the service of the company on this line of road in sympathy with the striking engineers and brakemen The employees of the company on this line of road have also left the service of the company in sympathy with the striking engineers and brakemen The employees of the company on this line of road have also left the service of the company in sympathy with the striking engineers and brakemen

The St Louis Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad does not yet connect with the Cairo road but has a road of its own in the southern part of the city Everything is quiet on the ground in this section as regards strikes at this writing No difficulty has been reported from the St Louis & Iron Mountain road freight trains are allowed to go out and probably the company will not attempt to run any In any event they will be willing for the strikers to do but to visit and wait until the city is out will be hard embargo is commenced by full

KANSAS CITY July 23—2 A M There is a feverish state of affairs in and coming railroad and streets this being the terminal point and headquarters of many trunk lines and there being a large number of railroad employees collected there will be no freight trains leaving the city among many no thing definite being done No put the meeting this afternoon when they will decide upon a course by action of the railroad employees in St Louis and Chicago It is reported that the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe road notified their employees to say that wages were to be reduced it would be restored to former rates Wages first

LEBANON July 23 Neither passenger or freight trains are moved but from the latter West on the Lebanon Valley Railroad Both coming East and West are unbroken

The Cincinnati Southern Harbor Yards and the Pennsylvania

BETHLEHEM July 23—2 P M All quiet on the public streets during the day A public meeting was held this afternoon through out the public interest of the Bethlehem Iron Co and the men determined in the event of a strike they be high Valley Railroad after the mill employs a number between 3 000 and 4 000 hands, serious trouble may be the result

ALBANY July 23 Governor Robinson ordered three to-night Hon James Seymour to call the National Guard together to be prepared for any effect

WASHINGTON July 23 Secretary Sherman ordered Lieutenant Dornick with 10 men and machine armed and equipped for service at Martinsburg The Colonel Hamilton with 200 soldiers and marines making force 500 The steamer Powhattan was originally ordered here but it was found she drew too much water

WILKESBARRE July 23 The Lehigh Valley men are expected to strike to-night If they go out the miners will also and make the strike common cause The entire 1st division will rendezvous here The 9th regiment are camped at Lee Park There is great excitement in the city

OSWEGO N Y July 23 Battery F 3d artillery has left for Baltimore

ELMIRA N Y July 23 The North Central Railroad shopmen numbering 300 struck this morning The Erie trackmen on the Susquehanna division struck at noon The Lackawanna and Bremen on the Northern Central joined the shopmen

THE LATEST DESPATCHES

Scenes in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG Pa July 23—10 40 P M The mob forced an entrance into a gun store on 2d street a few minutes ago and sold a quantity of firearms The Mayor addressed the crowd and induced them to return part of the plunder Intense excitement prevails The crowd which crossed the river in search of the Philadelphia militiamen returned to the city with 23 men of the 1st and 21 regiment as prisoners The captives were well fed and treated courteously by the strikers Capt Snowden and thirty two men of the city troop of Philadelphia were found a mile outside of the city and conducted to the State arsenal where they are quartered

Pittsburg Quiet.

PITTSBURG July 23—10 30 P. M. The city is quiet to night and the streets are filled with citizens, but no disorderly or turbulent characters show themselves The citizen forces demonstrate their ability to protect property and preserve the peace

In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA July 23. Matters remain quiet at West Philadelphia The Mayor has had a large number of police men scattered along the roads The bridges are guarded to keep suspicious characters or crowds from the crossings and the military are close at hand should their services be required. The passenger trains are departing and arriving as usual

The general feeling is hopeful that the worst has passed as far as this city is concerned. Notices posted in various parts of the city calling meeting of working men and sympathizers with the strikers are torn down by the police in citizens dress, under orders from the Adjutant General

Capt. Wells is now preparing at the League Island Navy Yard 17,000 rounds of ammunition for Springfield, which will be despatched to the points designated as soon as required.

ST LOUIS July 23 Everything is very quiet Union depot and in the yard of the Union Railway and Transfer Co this morning The one o'clock train was allowed to cross the Eads bridge but soon will be permitted to pass at 12 o'clock The engineers and firemen on the Pacific road company who left the service of the company on this line of road in sympathy with the striking engineers and brakemen The employees of the company on this line of road have also left the service of the company in sympathy with the striking engineers and brakemen

The St Louis Iron Mountain & Southern Railroad does not yet connect with the Cairo road but has a road of its own in the southern part of the city Everything is quiet on the ground in this section as regards strikes at this writing No difficulty has been reported from the St Louis & Iron Mountain road freight trains are allowed to go out and probably the company will not attempt to run any In any event they will be willing for the strikers to do but to visit and wait until the city is out will be hard embargo is commenced by full

KANSAS CITY July 23—2 A M There is a feverish state of affairs in and coming railroad and streets this being the terminal point and headquarters of many trunk lines and there being a large number of railroad employees collected there will be no freight trains leaving the city among many no thing definite being done No put the meeting this afternoon when they will decide upon a course by action of the railroad employees in St Louis and Chicago It is reported that the Atchison Topeka and Santa Fe road notified their employees to say that wages were to be reduced it would be restored to former rates Wages first

LEBANON, July 23 Neither passenger or freight trains are moved but from the latter West on the Lebanon Valley Railroad Both coming East and West are unbroken

The Cincinnati Southern Harbor Yards and the Pennsylvania

BETHLEHEM July 23—2 P M All quiet on the public streets during the day A public meeting was held this afternoon through out the public interest of the Bethlehem Iron Co and the men determined in the event of a strike they be high Valley Railroad after the mill employs a number between 3 000 and 4 000 hands, serious trouble may be the result

ALBANY July 23 Governor Robinson ordered three to-night Hon James Seymour to call the National Guard together to be prepared for any effect

WASHINGTON July 23 Secretary Sherman ordered Lieutenant Dornick with 10 men and machine armed and equipped for service at Martinsburg The Colonel Hamilton with 200 soldiers and marines making force 500 The steamer Powhattan was originally ordered here but it was found she drew too much water

WILKESBARRE July 23 The Lehigh Valley men are expected to strike to-night If they go out the miners will also and make the strike common cause The entire 1st division will rendezvous here The 9th regiment are camped at Lee Park There is great excitement in the city

ELMIRA N Y July 23 The North Central Railroad shopmen numbering 300 struck this morning The Erie trackmen on the Susquehanna division struck at noon The Lackawanna and Bremen on the Northern Central joined the shopmen

THE LATEST DESPATCHES

Scenes in Harrisburg

HARRISBURG Pa July 23—10 40 P M The mob forced an entrance into a gun store on 2d street a few minutes ago and sold a quantity of firearms The Mayor addressed the crowd and induced them to return part of the plunder Intense excitement prevails The crowd which crossed the river in search of the Philadelphia militiamen returned to the city with 23 men of the 1st and 21 regiment as prisoners The captives were well fed and treated courteously by the strikers Capt Snowden and thirty two men of the city troop of Philadelphia were found a mile outside of the city and conducted to the State arsenal where they are quartered

Pittsburg Quiet.

PITTSBURG, July 23—10 30 P. M. The city is quiet to night and the streets are filled with citizens, but no disorderly or turbulent characters show themselves The citizen forces demonstrate their ability to protect property and preserve the peace

In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, July 23. Matters remain quiet at West Philadelphia The Mayor has had a large number of police men scattered along the roads The bridges are guarded to keep suspicious characters or crowds from the crossings and the military are close at hand should their services be required. The passenger trains are departing and arriving as usual

The general feeling is hopeful that the worst has passed as far as this city is concerned. Notices posted in various parts of the city calling meeting of working men and sympathizers with the strikers are torn down by the police in citizens dress, under orders from the Adjutant General

Capt. Wells is now preparing at the League Island Navy Yard 17,000 rounds of ammunition for Springfield, which will be despatched to the points designated as soon as required.

A PROCLAMATION.

The following proclamation has just been issued by the President of the United States

Whereas it is provided in the Constitution of the United States that the United States shall protect every [illegible] State in the Union, and whereas the laws of the United States require that in all cases of insurrection in any State, or of obstruction to the laws thereof, whenever in the judgment of the President it becomes necessary to use military forces to suppress such insurrection or obstruction to the laws, he shall forthwith by proclamation command such insurgents to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective abodes within a limited time Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B Hayes, President of the United States do hereby admonish all good citizens of the United States and all persons within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States against aiding countenancing abetting, or taking part in such unlawful proceedings, and I do hereby warn all persons engaged in, or connected with said obstructions of violence and obstruction of the laws to disperse and retire peaceably to their respective homes on or before twelve o'clock noon of the twenty fourth day of July instant

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed at Washington this twenty third day of July
